

A lady from Germany resides in the palace of an Arabian prince

On the occasion of the Dubai World Cup, the most famous horse race in the world, the gate to the palace belonging to Nooruddin Mustafa Bin Abdul Latif in the sheikhdom of Dubai opens to greet prominent personalities from the western and Arabian world at a grandiose gala. Sheikh Nooruddin, whose family comes from Bahrain, was born in Dubai and is the blue-blooded lord of the palace and yet he is everything other than “only” the preserver of the royal distance to the “populace”. He is a man of the world, an exceedingly successful businessman and as such does not maintain a harem. In fact, on journeys around the world he “only acquired one single wife”. A European wife, a German from Westphalia; from the city of Dortmund. That, in the meantime, is more than 25 years ago and he is happy with his wife Mona. Nooruddin’s and Mona’s daughter is also happily married to an influential “local” from the Kingdom of Dubai.

Mona (r) with Jane Jaegersbacher, wife of the marketing director of the international Jumeirah Group

Nooruddin (l) with a couple from Dubai's high society

Scheikh Nooruddin greets Folkert Klaassen, Professor of Communications and gala singer and his wife Elke (from Dortmund)

From left Lilo Cappell, wife of the ambassador, Yousif Naemat, racing stable owner and CEO of International Trading Enterprises Dubai/Abu Dhabi together with his charming companion, Conrad Cappell – German Ambassador to the Sultan of Brunei, Elke Klaassen

Visiting Dubai with an Islamic Fashion Show: the Queen of Malaysia. From left Dr. Mohammed Naemat, chairman, Her Majesty the Queen of Malaysia, Lilo Cappell, wife of the ambassador and benefit performance lady, Conrad Cappell, the German Ambassador in the sultanate of Brunei.

Chairman Majid Abdulrazak – Government (I) and Jakoob Hassan – CEO National Bank of Dubai

VIP shuttle for the fellow countrymen from Dortmund
in Mona's Rolls Royce

The day after that host Nooruddin invited a small group of favoured guests onto his yacht for deep sea fishing and to view his other villa Worth millions on "Palm Island".

Mona Abdullatij wife of the Sheikh, and Elke Klaassen, both from Dortmund, leaving for the marina. Three of these skyscrapers at Dubai Marina belong to Mona's enterprising "prince"

Claus-Henning Cappell (SAP) and his girlfriend Isabel (Lufthansa stewardess)

Fisherman's luck: Klaassen caught one of the 5 barracudas .....and the German ambassador went for a swim... with a fat cigar